INTRODUCTORY NOTE

The following list grew out of small beginnings. When in the Public Library of the City of Boston I amused myself in noting any broadside issued in Massachusetts between the years 1774 and 1783, on a half-formed scheme of utilizing the items in a study of the civil aspects of the War for Independence. The list was not completed and later, in the Library of Congress, was added to only as occasion offered, on no systematic plan. The growing interest in broadside material has suggested a full check-list, which would be a better guide were it extended to include all broadsides issued in Massachusetts from the earliest introduction of printing into the colony to the year 1800. On consulting Evans' American Bibliography I estimated that double the number there recorded would be ample, but I was soon obliged to alter my opinion, and the result in numbers speaks for itself.

In England the broadside served many purposes in the sixteenth century. From a proclamation by the King, or an act of Parliament, to a notice of a town by-law, authority used it to inform officials and the people of duties and regulations. In controversy, political or personal, the broadside served as a weapon of offence and defence, costing little and lending itself readily to a quiet circulation, difficult to counter or to trace to its source. The news-sheet, out of which came the newspaper of to-day, was probably suggested by the broadside, and soon supplanted the broadside on mere matters of news, but by no means deprived it of a wide field of service. Poets put out ballads which, if popular, proved profitable to printer and hawker; satires, directly or indirectly levelled against abuses, wrongs or individuals, if spiced with wit or humor — the broader the better — gave an opportunity to start a reform, gratify revenge, retort to impudence or smother an opponent in ridicule. The newspaper "extra" of to-day was foreshadowed in the leaflet announcing a battle on land or sea, the death of a royal personage, a voting list on a measure of wide importance, a brutal murder or a dying confession. The collections in the Chetham Library, Manchester, in the Society of Antiquaries of London and in Lord Crawford's library, indicate frequent and effective resort to this form of issue and the various forms it assumed.[1]

The earliest examples of English broadsides that have survived were associated with church and papal authority. The first known printed royal proclamation, issued in the year 1486, contained the papal Bull in favor of Henry VII, known only by an imperfect copy in the Society of Antiquaries of London. There exist a number of plenary indulgences issued under directions of the pope in the opening years of the sixteenth century, but not until 1640 was the earliest known political sheet printed — "A Balade agaynst malycyous Sclaunderers" — which was a defence of the memory of Thomas Cromwell. From that time the use of the broadside becomes increasingly common, and covered a large number of purposes.

Massachusetts did not take kindly to the broadside, though the first issues of its press were in that form of official regulations. It was long before a broadside other than of government or of college was used for personal or mortuary ends. The earliest known issue of the press set up in Cambridge was in the form of a broadside — the "freeman's oath" (1639) — and twenty years passed before the first known sheet of "verses" appeared in 1659. Nearly the same time elapsed before the broadside on smallpox was issued, probably by the aid or direction of government, and that is one reason for doubting "Innocency's Complaint" (1677) as an issue of the New England press. If a genuine issue it stands as the first political broadside in New England, not to be repeated until the coming from England of Benjamin Harris, whose experience at home had given him a thorough knowledge of the use and abuse of broadside literature, an experience he was to repeat in Massachusetts. As the idea of a Massachusetts news-sheet came from him, it is more than probable that he introduced the broadside other than official or mortuary.

For nearly a century this form of publication enjoyed a somewhat uncertain existence, if what has survived offers any test of use and popularity. Government adopted it and in time of war extended its availability, partly because of the quick and ready printing and dispersion of the sheets, partly because of the saving they made in the preparation of reports and returns, both civil and military. Even in this last description of document recognition of its convenience was slow. The ship's paper issued by Randolph in 1688 is the earliest instance, and suggests a foreign usage introduced by the King's commissioner. Law blanks are found about the same time, and merchants used printed bills of lading in 1683. The funeral verses, which were pinned to the pall covering the coffin, represent the earliest personal employment of the broadside, and those on Mrs. Minot (1667) were the first to show the roughly engraved border with its cut suggestive of mortality, for many years in favor. Sewall, for a time censor of the press, was fond of indulging his turn for verse printed on a single leaf, but his example does not appear to have been followed by others. The eighteenth century (1704) had come before the first account of behavior and dying speeches of criminals is found, unadorned with any cut or even with the heavy mourning borders.

The development of illustration by woodcut was not rapid. The colony seal, the work of John Foster, appeared in 1676, and the royal arms on a proclamation issued by Andros and printed by Richard Pierce in 1688, again a direct importation of usage and perhaps of the engraved block itself by a royal representative. But after a single use of the royal arms the colony seal resumed its place on government papers, not to be again displaced until 1692, when Benjamin Harris, the most enterprising printer Boston ever had, brought in the royal arms. Not until 1718 was a cut intended as a true illustration employed, and the experiment could hardly have been profitable, as the second instance is found in 1732, in connection with an execution on Boston Neck. By that time the populace were content to have its palate and eye thus morbidly tickled and each printer had his execution block which could be modified to suit a single or a double hanging. Whether poverty of design, absence of taste or expense of cutting the block retarded the use of engraving in printing is a question not to be answered here; it was long before Hurd, Turner, Pelham, and Revere showed what could be done in that direction. The list points to Thomas Hancock, a bookseller, as the first to use a store-card, and the later one (1748) of Joseph and Daniel Waldo, engraved by James Turner, is on an unexpectedly elaborate scale. To indicate the beginnings and growth of the woodcut designs a few of them are reproduced. The use of the same cut a number of times and at wide intervals of time, even by different printers in different places, offers a curious field for investigation which could only be glanced at in these pages. It would be impossible more than to indicate some of the double uses, without tracing cuts to almanac, primer and chap-book.

Certain subjects of discussion encouraged the issue of leaflets, like the aspirations of Boston for a market, or the conditions following the experiments in bills of credit in the first half of the eighteenth century. But the institution of royal customs commissioners, the stamp act and resulting measures, contributory causes of the War for Independence, produced the greatest activity, still chiefly on the part of government. After the first years of the revolution the need of such an agency of publicity was less and the use rapidly declined. The newspaper improved as a medium of communication, and deprived the broadside of its principal excuse. Proposals of publication came in and apart from official issues represent the most interesting feature. The taste for executions and concomitant scenes died out in Boston but persisted in Worcester and other places. Ezekiel Russell of Salem developed a touch of the sensational in the general make-up of his impressions, intended to be hawked through the country by pedlars and tradesmen. It may be said, however, that the broadside practically ceases to have historical interest after 1800.

The subject of Massachusetts almanacs has been exhaustively treated by Dr. Charles L. Nichols.[1] It is not a little strange that the broadside almanac, found in Pennsylvania at the end of the seventeenth century, was not more generally used in Massachusetts, for there was an undoubted convenience in that form. The earliest instance is the almanac of 1725 and while the sheet almanac is mentioned in advertisements occasionally, it is at the end of the eighteenth century that they become a regular issue, and then by that enterprising printer and publisher, Isaiah Thomas, who was the nearest approach to Benjamin Franklin in ability to measure a market for his publications.[2] But the broadside almanac was practically destroyed by the use to which it was put, and the few known examples are generally in a condition eloquent on the difficulty of preserving them. It is also possible that the use was more general than the few surviving examples would indicate.

[2] Dr. Nichols, in a volume printed by the Club of Odd Volumes, has dealt with Isaiah Thomas and the products of his press in a manner leaving nothing to be added.

One branch of future study will be the ballads circulated in the colony and province. The production of native poetry was not large, nor did it possess a high quality either in theme or in form. The atmosphere of early Massachusetts was not favorable to the cultivation of any of the muses, least of all that of poetry. The Bay Psalm Book (1640) illustrates at once the defect of imagination and the want of appreciation of a proper vehicle for poetic fancy. For generations the form and spirit of that kind of poetry affected the verse-makers, and the wealth of English poetry was almost a sealed book to the colonists. The broadside offers many examples of attempts at versification, and it is entirely of domestic manufacture. The ballad did not come into popular use until after the War for Independence, and never, indeed, attained the popularity it enjoyed in England. James Franklin, the Fleets of Boston and Ezekiel Russell of Salem were early exploiters of the occasional ballad, and later Nathaniel Coverly and his son, of Chelmsford and Boston, issued a large number of ballads, both American and foreign, appealing to a growing market for such products.

In the list of ballads, appended to the list of broadsides, wide latitude has been taken and little regard given to time of issue. One excuse for this lies in the fact that the ballad may originally have been of early date and was reprinted for its supposed interest or novelty. Paper and print are most uncertain guides in determining the period of issue and to undertake to lay down arbitrary limits would end in greater confusion than to print a list of everything found. Completeness is not claimed for this ballad series, and much time, spent to little purpose, would be required to study origin, likeness and variation. The list is offered as tentative, to be developed by some student of that form of sheet literature. It is not a little remarkable, however, that Boston appears to have been the chief centre of production well into the nineteenth century. No other colony or state can show the same number of issues or so catholic a selection.

The difficulty of dealing with this kind of printed material is that the items were printed in small editions, were sold at a low price or given away, and were difficult to preserve. It is doubtful if they were considered at the time of more than passing interest or worth the keeping. Nor have they been deemed worthy of separate mention in a sale catalogue of books until recent years, and I well remember how they were bundled in "lots" and sold for a song. A few collectors of autographs — like Thomas Addis Emmet and Gordon Lester Ford — gathered them to illustrate their letters, but that interest rested with such as were of historical importance. Within ten years the values in the market have steadily risen until they sell for prices out of all proportion to their intrinsic interest, but hardly yet proportioned to their rarity. Nor does any single collection yet exist of such size as to permit an appreciation of their political bearing or literary quality and position in colonial letters. Unquestionably the collection of Massachusetts Historical Society approaches the needs of such an appreciation, for effort has been made to bring to it reproductions of such issues of interest as were not to be found in the libraries of Boston and vicinity. Of 2949 items listed below in the first part of the volume, 1711 are to be found in our cabinet in the original or in a photographed form, or about fifty-eight per cent of the whole. The Society has in addition a number in facsimile form as issued in various publications, and it is within bounds to say that in Boston libraries can be found about everything of importance in this check list.

This material is not easy to locate, for few libraries have separated or catalogued their broadsides as such, and the sheets were more apt to be used as wrappers or to be folded and bound in a volume of pamphlets than to be kept as separate items. To ask a librarian for the broadsides in his keeping was to touch upon an almost unknown subject and it would be hopeless to go through the card catalogue of a library of even moderate size in search of leaflets, as the result would not justify the time required for such a search and much would be overlooked because not included or adequately described in the catalogue.

In a "Catalogue of English and American Chap-Books and Broadside Ballads in Harvard College Library" Mr. Lane has shown the great variety and yet well defined classes of such issues. The only disappointment given by this catalogue of nearly twenty-five hundred items is the small number of American issues. If any library in the land might be expected to have stored on its shelves the curious and the occasional, that of Harvard College should stand first. It is actually first in scholarly collections — the English Chap-Books are an example — but it is either without a corresponding lot of American broadsides, or they are there in a form and in a location where they cannot be reached for examination. Professor George L. Kittredge kindly placed at my disposal a collection of broadside ballads which has been gathered under his direction, and has thus done what was possible to unlock the undefined extent of such treasures in that library. I cannot but feel that my list is more incomplete than could be wished, merely because Harvard College supplied so little outside of its own commencement papers, notices and forms of business. Apart from that possible source, I believe I have covered the most important collections, and am quite willing to leave the supplement to my successor.[1]

Such a list can never be complete, for the earlier issues of the press have so largely disappeared as to leave a gap of unknown extent. This is shown by the bills for printing for the colony submitted in 1689 and 1690 by Green, in which are named a number of items of which the larger part have not been located in any collection. There is no reason also to deny the separate appearance of some, if not all, of the elegiac verses found embodied in chapters of contemporary, or nearly contemporary, history. Morton, in his New Englands Memoriall (1669), for example, prints Peter Bulkley's "Lamentation" for the death of Rev. Thomas Hooker, 1647, two poems by Edward Bulkley, one "A Threnodia" on the death of Rev. Samuel Stone, 1663, and another on the death of Jonathan Mitchill, 1668, and a number of others. While it is possible that these verses circulated in manuscript, yet there is little internal evidence that Morton dealt in manuscript material other than that of Bradford. It is possible, even probable, that these elegies were printed and reached Plymouth in that form. I have listed them on the probability. I do not, however, list those in Mather's sermons and histories, because he was a collector of manuscripts, was in Boston, and therefore in a position to possess or have access to the manuscript.

It is impossible even to conjecture the years of printing for the ballad literature. The imprint like the "Heart and Crown" or "In Cornhill" could apply to a long term of years and only indicates the printer. Where no contemporary record assists in determining the year or period, these ballads will be given alphabetically at the end of the list. If the date of an English issue has been found, it is adopted for the undated American leaflet, to place it in about its period of production, thus suggesting its place in a sequence. Such a practice is arbitrary, but may be justified in default of any other plan.

[1] I have used auction catalogues sparingly. They are very inaccurate in dates and in description, and claim more than can be conceded without a careful examination of the broadside and comparison with like issues.

An example of the problems raised is afforded by the sale by auction of what was believed to be our No. 142, the statement issued on the surrender of Edmund Andros. The copy of the broadside went into the library of Mr. William Gwinn Mather, and on his courteously sending a photostat reproduction it was found to be the same text as No. 142 but entirely different in type, being in black letter.

With such difficulties to overcome it is certain that this list cannot be considered as free from criticism. Some limitations were imposed at the beginning. Maps, or engravings or legal blanks have been excluded, except in a few instances and for special reasons. Maps are not proper subjects for such a list and are better dealt with in lists prepared by specialists in maps. A few engravings have been admitted, either because of their interest, like the card on spermaceti candles (208) engraved by Hurd, the unlocated "caricatura" (1344) by the same hand, or because they were pertinent, like the store-card of Hancock, the bookseller, or engraved commissions, like those under Bernard and Hutchinson. Law blanks came late into general use but rapidly increased in number and variety, few printers not printing what would be in steady demand and a source of small yet continuing profits. A careful study of the various changes in language and form might possibly suggest something of value to the historian of legal practice, but of no interest to any but the antiquary. The earliest occurrence of a form is noted, with occasional mention of later varieties. Where the name of the printer is found it is given, for thus a clue with which to identify other issues of the same press may be suggested. One exception has been made in the "Oaths of Allegiance." Being without date as a rule, those that bear a year — the year in which the signers took the oath — will serve to place in its proper time a like undated one. What appeared regularly at stated intervals are only occasionally listed. The annual law apportioning taxes throughout the colony and state, precepts to elect representatives, tickets to balls and assemblies and lottery tickets, are examples of what are either not listed at all, or given when found, or only once to establish the form. Proclamations appointing days of fasting or thanksgiving rest upon another basis, often giving historical information of the special occasion.

The selection of items has not been entirely consistent, but the proper rule of inclusion would be difficult to frame and more difficult to apply. The definition of a broadside is not fixed, though Mr. Evans in the introduction to his fifth volume[1] has undertaken to discriminate. In the present instance the word has been broadly used, intended to apply to almost any issue of the press which has not a proper title page, whether printed on a single leaf or on a number of leaves, whether carrying page numbers and signature-marks or without such usual indications of a pamphlet or volume. It is more serviceable to note this stray and fleeting product of the press, often unrecorded elsewhere, in too great fulness, for in that way the labors of other bibliographers are supplemented. Further, the list in its original intention and final performance is tinged with personal motives, serving as an aid in special undertakings now in process of completion. If too much has been included much has undoubtedly been omitted, and one of the leading objects of the publication is to call out from their hiding places the unknown or at least the undiscovered issues of a like character.

The frontispiece to this volume is made up of two fragments of a papal indulgence printed at Madrid, February 2, 1738, and bearing the (printed) signature of Cardinal Gaspar de Molina y Oviedo. These fragments had been used as covers to two manuscript sermons by a New England clergyman. The history of this indulgence is told under No. 875 on page 121 of this volume. The ballad there mentioned is printed on the lower half of the indulgence and the text for that portion is complete. I have not located a complete text of the upper half and the reproduction is made in the hope that at some time a full example of this document, spoils of war, may be found.

I acknowledge my indebtedness to the late Nathaniel Paine, of Worcester, and to Charles Evans, compiler of the American Bibliography.[2] Pioneers in this field, they did not go far in covering it. Intensive cultivation was needed to obtain the best results. I have received many favors from libraries, the custodians of which have thrown open their stores freely and with every privilege and courtesy. The list is practically that of the libraries named in the "Key" on page 2, and my sense of obligation is as great to the small as to the large libraries.

[2] See also the list of "Early American Poetry to 1820" in the New York Public Library, made by Mr. John C. Frank and printed in the Bulletin of that Library, xxi. 517.

An essential factor has been the photostat, which has enabled a closer examination of widely separated items to be made, developing hitherto undiscovered differences and adding materially to the number of issues known. Instances of this multiplication may be seen in the issues of Father Abdy's Will (1730), broadsides issued on the death of George Whitefield (1770) and those on Levi Ames (1773). This comparison has also permitted printers to be identified, and under a more extended application, will throw some light upon the history of printing in Massachusetts.

Mr. F. W. Coar, of New York, has courteously permitted me to use blocks of some broadsides which have passed through his hands — the inserts in this volume. The illustrations in the text are copied from the originals and tend to prove the slow advance in wood engraving in the century covered by the list.

A PROCLAMATION

By The PRESIDENT and COUNCIL of His Majestiy's Territory & Dominion of NEW-ENGLAND in AMERICA.

WHEREAS His Most Excellent Majesty our Soveraign LORD JAMES the Second, King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith &c. by COMMISSION or Letters Patents under His Great Seal of England, bearing Date the Eight day of October in the first [illegible] of His Reign hath been graciously pleased to erect and constitute a PRESIDENT and COUNCIL to take Care of all the His Territory and Dominion of New-England called the Massachusets Bay, the Provinces of New-Hampshire & Main, and the Narragansit Country, otherwise called the Kings Province, with all the Ilands, Rights and Members thereunto appertaining; and to Order Rule and GOVERN the same according to the Rules, Methods and Regulations specified in the said Commission: Together with His Majesties Gracious Instigence in matters of Religion.

And for the Execution of His Royal pleasure in that behalf, His Majesty hath been pleased to appoint [illegible] Dudley Esq to be the first PRESIDENT of His Majesties said Council, & the said COUNCIL of those Seats, and to Continue in the said offices until His Majesty shall otherwise direct, & also to nominate & appoint [illegible], Esq now Deputy Governour, [illegible], Robert Mason, John Pynchon, [illegible], John Pynchon, Peter Bulkley, Edward Randolph, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], Barth: Lowrey Gedney, Jonathan Tyng, Danny Bradstreet, [illegible], and Edward Tyng, Esq: to be His Majesties Council in the said Colony and Territories.

The President & Council therefore being constituted and Invested according to the Direction & Form of the said Commission, taken their Oathes and Entered the GOVERNMENT thereof, and finding it needful that speedy & effectual care be taken for the Administration of His Majesties Commands, and thereupon for the Regulation and good Government of the Narragansit Country, or Kings Province, which hath hitherto been [illegible]. Thus the said President & Council have resolved speedily to erect and settle a constant Court of Record upon the place, and that the President, Deputy Governour, or three others of the Members of His Majesties Council shall be present to give all needful Power and Direction for [illegible] His Majesties Government there, and Administration of Justice to All His Majesties Subjects within the said Narragansit Country or Kings Province, and all the Islands, Rights, and Members thereof. And the said President & Council have in the meantime Appointed [illegible] Esq: James Fitzjames, and [illegible] Peter Peirce Gentlemen, Justices to keep the Peace of our Soveraign Lord the KING and his Subjects: And also given Commission to the said Richard Smith to be Sergeant at Arms, and Chief Commander of His Majesties Militia, both of Horse & Foot within the Narragansit Countries or Provinces, and all the Ilands Rights and Members thereof. THEREFORE the said President & Council doe hereby in His Majesties Name and by virtue of His said Commission strictly Require & Command all other persons being or coming upon the place, to forbear the Exercise of all manner of Jurisdiction, Authority, and Power, and to cease all further Proceedings for the Allotments or Divisions of Land, or making any Strip or Waste upon any part of the said Province, save only on each man's seated Propriety, except by Licence obtained from the said Court, or the President & Council, until there shall be such effectual Regulation and Government established as is directed by His Majesty. And the said President & Council doe hereby henceforth discharge all His Majesties Subjects within the said Narragansit Countrey or Kings Province and all the Ilands, Rights & Members thereof from the Government of the Governour & Company of Connecticut & Rhode-Island and Providence Plantation, & all others pretending any Power or Jurisdiction. Hereby Charging & Commanding all His Majesties Subjects to yeild ready & due Obedience to the said Justices of the Peace, the Sergeant Major or Chief Commander of His Majesties Militia. And George Wenjeerman, Thomas Eldridge, Thomas Almsford and William Chaplin are hereby appointed & authorized present Constables: and Liberty given to the aforesaid Justices to appoint so many more as they shall see needful to them, and to administer Oathes unto the aforesaid Constables & such as are to be Ordered. And all other persons are to be aiding & assisting unto them the said Justices and Constables in the Execution and Discharge of their respective Offices, Charges and Trusts, as they will answer the contrary at their utmost Peril.

Given from the Council-house in Boston this 28*th Day of May Anno Domini* 1686. Annoq: Regni Regis Jacobi Secundi Secundo.

Little-Compton Scourge:

Or,

The Anti-Courant.

THE Acute Defoe [illegible] pitifully complain'd [illegible] Benefit of [illegible] which is to equally supply distributed among the Species, in the Excellent Talent. The Distribution is unnecessarily wellbalked of; you never hear any Man murmur and repine at the Fates, for his not having A Double Allowance. Every Man blesses himself that he is no Fool, and thanks his Stars, that he does not want Wit. So that this one Instance will however stand as a grand Exception to the general Maxim, No Man is content with his own Condition. Self-conceit supplies the Want of Sense, and favoured Wretch makes Man acroll Contentment a more commendable real and extraordinary Underftanding. It is well. This is the Case of the miserable and Self-Conceited, who, had he a true Figure of himself, and what a wretched Figure he makes in writing, would be scarce with all Mankind for having more Wit than himself.

Wit, what is that? Pray, from whence came it? What Age may it be of? Was it bred at College, or in an Apothecary's Shop. Sir. —— Pray, Sir, don't be angry at these Enquiries, for it is some of yours of your Families Pedigree or Education we are enquiring for. You have no acquaintance with it yet; you muft live near twice twenty and three Years more, ere you can count so mortal an Enemy into your favour, and win so delicate and coy a Guest into your rude and mortal Embraces.

But yet that you may know the Stranger when you have (if it be possible, which I much doubt) a chance sight of her, Let me desire you in the Name of an Apothecary, She is cloathed in a Latin Dress, and that she is much for a Pedantick and nice Parching Her unfortunately tattered Cloaths, with the Soil and Disgrace of Pieces from your true Roman Authors. As for Example, Bona non Erit Illi, plebs. Res gestæ and Seamen sustinet, quo tempore Natio, &c. Despicatus Maxima exhaustus MAGNA Laudis.

And further, if ever it should be your good, though doubtful Fate to have a glance View of her, or else her Gate, watch her Motions, (if she is out of sight even to one She'll tread in Metre, (for She is a pretty Antick Dame too) and you shall find pieces of Hexameters and Pentameters beat out in Time. Both of them, Vox prætereque nihil, and, Vox et præterea nihil.

As soon as ever you have arrived at so much Knowledge of her, if she flies from you after all, hallow out for your Life, and tell her that you know Mr. Beckerkef (for you are a Man used to a Hundred Names a Day and that he was a plain Cumming (for that you tried to come into the World just as he was) and should you perswade her You are as much Gentleman as Lackey and Link Boy to Mr. Gentleman, you are well off.

But, Sir, what did you say your Age was? Somewhat Years, and a few Days under twice twenty three. Good Sir, your writing betrays You in some Odd Year of your Age. Others will more readily think, by your Raw Scribbling, that Years had not much to do here, and that Days better became your Reckoning.

You are Confident of Readers and good Success with them. Never a Jack without a Jill. To your comfort you have a dull Pauty of Readers ready to your Hand, [illegible] been plagued for Want of Wonder for [illegible] Reading. And now the poor Souls are [illegible] they put Confidence in your dull a Dance [illegible] Delirry. Shew now and then, Mr. Gentleman, [illegible] not be two ill-quent in your Flights, and then I'll promise to keep you in Sight.

Take Courage, poor Courante, and don't disturb your self with [illegible] Fears, of creating Impatience in your diverse Readers. It would be fad to make Gentlevel become Impatient. Never fear, you will find good Quarter from the Gentle; and till you pollefs the Talent of Satire (which is the innocent Creature as you can never be guilty of) you may Reckon with the Mask of Folion and Refentment. Your hasty-tafte Ladies, which rather take them into a Laugh at the awkward Blogger, than gaul them in the least Place, will never displease them.

But to be sure, get your self Disputed (according to your Promise) that the World may have a full View of your Outward Man, for you are a Mirtitious Piece of Skin, that cannot disclose your Entrails without the Help of Anatomy. And, Sir, as for the Dilfection for the Discovery of the Inward Man, the World thinks it needless, for that your Works declare, your Guts were your Brains.

However, not to make you STOP SHORT three Times (as in your late Advertisement) we will permit you to let us have every Particular an Account of your Robust Body, and your Cloudy Mind.

And do not fail to give an elaborate and Impartial Account of the good Company of Lattten Sir of Mrs; otherwise your Silence in this Matter, may give the World threw Grounds of Suspicion, of what the excellent, immortal, and profoundly learned Dogrel (for we muft quote, you know, the beft Latin Authors,) once said of the Goat, which have in no Catechesis, Sir Gregon, apiz CAPER Accusavere.

Go on, Monfieur Courant, and profper; Fear not to please your stupid Admirers, which will be an eafy Task, if you will but confult your own heavy Genius, and write in your native Style, of which you have been so thump and discerning as to give us the apt and proper Character, VERY, VERY DULL!

Ithould, Sir, be unjuft and defraud you of your due, if I did not fend you a little Rythme (with fmall Variation, from a candid, fagacious, and celebrated Author) in Recompence of your wondrous witty Triplet.

Go on, [illegible] labour in Spite
Of Nature [illegible] your Brats to write.

Zachariah Touchstone.

Little-Compton,
Aug. 10th. 1721.

P. S. It were to be wished the Soleft Men, for the Peace of the Publick, would oblige Mr. Courante to be, Hemo unus Negotii

Query, Whether the Term [Extraordinaries] may be allowed. The younger Stringer is of Opinion, Extraordinaries, is a word of better Import. Take Notice, the candid Courantus, and the celebrated Scurrilogus do not scruple to declare that both the former Criticisms are EXTRAGROUNDLESS.

Sewall's Diary (III. 250) settles the question of printing. "The Govr. in Council said he had met with a Libel; producing it; it appeared to be [Colman's]

Whereas a laudable Custom hath of long Standing prevail'd in this Province of recommending, in the Publick Papers, the Virtuous Actions, blameless Lives, and christian Deportment of Deceas'd Persons, to the worthy Imitation of the Sorrowful Living; and as the same, (we hope) has been attended with a Wish'd for Success, to the Instruction, and Edification of the Surviving Generation. Now in Order to render the same more extensively Effectual; and to soften the Labours of these pious Gentlemen who have hitherto Employ'd their Pens & precious Moments to so Excellent a Purpose; It is humbly propos'd That the Endeavours of a Person, lately Arrived from Great Britain may merit Encouragement. The said Person having with the utmost Care, and best Assistances prepar'd a Set of characters, suited to both Sexes, Engraven on Copper Plates, by the most skilful Hands, with Void Spaces for Name, Age, Distinction, and Profession, or such Particular and Eminent Qualities, as do not properly fall under the Notice of general Description.

608. [Cut.] Father Abbey's Will. | To which is added, A Letter of Courtship to his virtuous & amiable widow. | Cambridge, December, 1731 . . . New-Haven, January 1731–2. Our Sweeper having lately buried his Spouse, and accidentally hearing of the Death and Will of his deceas'd Cambridge Brother, has conceiv'd a violent Passion for the Relict. . . .
† PHS

Matthew Abbey had for a great number of years served Harvard College in quality of bedmaker and sweeper. "The will is said to have been written by John Seccombe, afterwards a settled minister at Harvard, and the letter of courtship by Col. John Hubbard of New Haven." 2 Am. Ant. Soc. Proceedings, XI. 460. The "Will" first appeared in The Weekly Rehearsal, (Boston,) January 3, 1732, and the New Haven verses were printed in the same journal, February 7, 1732.

J. Langdon Sibley printed the poems with some historical and biographical notes in the Cambridge Chronicle, November 18, 1854, and reprinted his contribution in a pamphlet, in an edition of fifty copies for private distribution. He produces evidence that John Seccomb (1708–1792) of the class of 1728, was the author. Matthew Abdy, the proper spelling of the name, was born about 1650, and became bedmaker and sweeper in 1718. His third wife was named Ruth, and she died in 1762. The poem appeared in the Gentleman's Magazine, II. 770 (May, 1732), without the last four lines, beginning, "Thus Father Abbey left his Spouse." It also appeared in the London Magazine. Of the author of the letter of courtship Mr. Sibley appears to have had no knowledge. That poem also crossed the ocean and appeared in the Gentleman's Magazine, II. 821 (June 1732), and, with an interpolated verse, in the London Magazine, August, 1732. Both poems were printed in the Massachusetts Magazine, November, 1794. "Father Abbey's Will" was in recent times set to music, dedicated to the Graduates of Harvard University and published by Oliver Ditson. The lines of introduction are dated 1730. I add the known issues of the "Will," but there are no means of determining the years of imprint.

This is "Father Abdy's Will," but many lines have been changed. It bears a MS. note as follows: "The following was wrote by a Mr. John Seccombe of Medford in the County of Middlesex Massachusetts Bay in New England on Father Abdy Bedmaker with his wife & Sweeper of Massachusetts Colledge, commonly called New College in the Autumn of the year 1731, all of whom S. Curwen personally knew. Bot in a street in L[ondo]n August 1, 1782." Samuel Curwen (1715–1802), loyalist, was a member of the class of 1735. The item is inserted as an interesting instance of international exchange in ballad verses.

Captain-General and Governour in Chief, in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts-Bay in New-England.

A PROCLAMATION for a general FAST.

FORASMUCH as this Government has with great Expence and Labour raised and fitted out a large Body of Troops, and equipped a considerable Naval Force for an Expedition against the French at Cape-Breton, which Forces are now, thro' the Favour of Divine Providence, embarked, and have taken their Departure from this Place; And forasmuch as all our Hopes of Success in this important Enterprize ought to be placed in the gracious Presence of Almighty GOD, to give Wisdom and Conduct to our Officers, and Resolution and Courage both to Officers and Soldiers, to preserve our Forces from Sickness and other Disasters, and to govern all Accidents and Occurrences so as to render them favourable to our Designs; And as it is our indispensible Duty by Prayer and Supplication with penitent Confession of our Sins earnestly to implore the gracious Interposition of divine Providence, that it would please GOD to be on our Side and fight our Battle, and grant us Success and Victory;

I have therefore thought fit with the Advice of His Majesty's Council, to appoint Thursday the Fourth Day of April next, to be observed throughout this Province as a Day of Fasting and Prayer, hereby calling upon Ministers and People, as well in their private Devotions, as in their publick Assemblies, with a truly humble and contrite Spirit to confess and bewail the many and great Offences of this People, whereby GOD may be justly provoked to blast all our Designs in this Enterprize, and bring upon us the most heavy and lasting Calamities; and to cry mightily to him, that he would in his abundant Mercy through CHRIST, forgive all our Trespasses and make us a religious and reformed People, and thereby prepare us for all temporal Prosperity: And more especially, that they do under a deep Sense of the universal Providence of Almighty GOD, whereby he governs all Causes and Events according to his own Wise and sovereign Pleasure, with humble and importunate Prayers beseech him to keep Sin, the accursed Thing that provokes his just Indignation, out of the Camp and Fleet; and that he would graciously order all the Circumstances of this Enterprize in Mercy to this People; and that he would prosper and succeed it for the future Safety and Prosperity of This and the other British Provinces and Colonies, for His is the Power, the Glory, and the Victory: And after all, humbly & dutifully to submit this great Affair to his wise and sovereign Determination, that so in all Respects this may be such a Fast as GOD has required, and a Day of Atonement and not of further Provocation; And that it would also please GOD to give Success to the Arms of his Majesty and his Allies in the Operations of the ensuing Summer; And that Peace may be restored both in Europe and in America, And that the universal Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, the Prince of Peace, may prevail in the World, and the whole Earth be filled with His Glory. And all servile Labour and Recreations are strictly forbidden on the said Day.

Given at the Council-Chamber in BOSTON, the Twenty-fifth Day of March, 1745. In the Eighteenth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Second, by the Grace of GOD, of GREAT-BRITAIN, FRANCE and IRELAND, KING, Defender of the Faith, &c.

By His Excellency

WILLIAM SHIRLEY, Esq;

Captain-General and Governour in Chief, in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts-Bay in New-England.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS His Majesty has been graciously pleased to order a Number of Troops, under the Command of the Honourable Lieutenant General W. Gage, to proceed from Great-Britain to Lunenburg, with a sufficient Number of Men of War, and such Transport as His Majesty's Troops may be Conveyed in to Lunenburg, and from thence to Crown Point, there to act against the French and their Indian Allies, and all others His Majesty's Enemies, and the Enemies of His People: His Majesty's Colonies in North America are hereby required to furnish their Proportion of Troops, as recommended His Royal Pleasure to Me, directing the Quotas of the several Provinces and Colonies, viz. New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, New-Castle, Kent and Sussex upon Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, to Fifteen hundred Men each; for the Speedy Dispatch whereof it was thought proper that Commissions should be forthwith issued for raising a Number of Men within this Province, and for other Preparations, as the Shortness of the Time will admit, for proceeding on the said Expedition,

AND Whereas the Great and General Court of this Province have, with the utmost Chearfulness and Unanimity, voted to grant all necessary and proper Encouragement for Their Thousand Volunteers, that shall enlist into His Majesty's Service in the Expedition,

In Consideration whereof His Majesty's [illegible]

I have thought fit, With the Advice of his Majesty's Council, to issue this Proclamation, in Order to make known his Majesty's gracious Intentions and Declarations for the Encouragement of all able bodied effective Men that are inclined to enlist themselves into his Service in the said Expedition, together with the further Encouragement which is offered by this Government, viz. That the said Volunteers shall be under such Officers as I shall appoint. That they will be immediately entitled to his Majesty's Pay, the Officers from the Time they shall engage in his Majesty's Service, and the Soldiers from the respective Days on which they shall be enlisted. That if Provision cannot be made of Arms and Cloathing for them, by reason of the Shortness of the Time, a reasonable Allowance will be made them in Money for the same. That they shall be entitled to a Share of the Booty that shall be taken from the Enemy, and shall be seat back to their several Habitations, when this Service shall be over, unless any of them shall desire to settle elsewhere.

AND for the further Encouragement of all Volunteers that shall enlist into this Service, It is provided, That they shall receive Three Pounds in Bills of Credit of the old Tenor, as a Bounty, as also for each Man a good Blanket, and a Bed for every two Men: the said Bounty to be paid upon their Enlistment, and the Blankets and Beds at the Time of their Embarkation, or Proceeding on the said Expedition. And that all such Volunteers as shall proceed on this Expedition, shall be exempted from all Impresses for two Years after their Return.

Given at the Council Chamber in Boston, the Seven[illegible] Day of June 1[illegible] In the Nineteenth Year of the Reign of Our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the second, by the Grace of GOD of Great Britain, France and Ireland, KING, Defender of the Faith, &c.

By Order of His Excellency the Governour, with the Advice of the Council,

Of a worthy London Prentice my purpose is to speak,

Printed on the back of a Spanish indulgence. "In 1748, during the war between England and Spain, a Spanish ship, captured by an English cruiser, was sent into Boston. Among other articles in the captured vessel, were several bales of Bulls or Indulgencies, issued by the Pope, and printed on one side of a small sheet. Fleet purchased a large quantity of them at a low price, and printed songs and ballads on the back of them. In the Evening Post he advertised them as follows: — 'Choice Pennsylvania Tobacco Paper to be sold by the Publisher of this Paper, at the Heart and Crown [in Cornhill, Boston]; where may also be had the BULLS or Indulgencies of the present Pope Urban VIII. either by the single Bull, Quire, or Ream, at a much cheaper Rate than they can be purchased of the French or Spanish Priests, and yet will be warranted to be of the same Advantage to the Possessors." Buckingham, Reminiscences, I. 142. This is the only example I have found. The advertisement will be found in the Boston Evening-Post, November 7, 1748.

It is dated Jan. 1, 1749, 50. Evans, 6495. BPL. MHS

A publication in book form (price two shillings old Tenor) was announced in the Boston Weekly News-Letter, January 4, 1750, and January 25 a rival publication, to be sold by Samuel Kneeland and Timothy Green, Jr., was announced, with what was apparently a leaflet: "With an Example, and its operation, . . . fitted to the meanest capacities, in a small Page for the Pocket, or the Pocket Book." This may, however, refer to the size of the volume — a 16mo. In the same issue of the News-Letter Rogers and Fowle repeated their announcement and added: "N. B. The said Table is printed in such a Manner as is convenient to paste up in People's Houses, for their constant use." A critic pointed out in the Boston Evening Post, January 29, 1750, some errors, which led the Rogers and Fowle to explain in the News-Letter of February 1 and add to the reply the following: "☞ The true and plain Table (which has been published by Rogers and Fowle, on one side of a Sheet for conveniency of pasting up in Houses, Shops and Warehouses for constant Use) in a few Days will likewise be printed in a small Fold, convenient for the Pocket-Book." March 1, 1750, the News-Letter announced the publication by Rogers and Fowle of "A Correct minute Table to bring old Tenor into lawful Money, . . . and is a Supplement to the Table already published by said Rogers and Fowle." The price was two shillings old Tenor, one too high for a broadside, and I believe this to be the following item.

910. A Correct Table from one Penny to twenty Shillings Old Tenor: which may serve as a Supplement to the above Table, and be further useful to Shopkeepers in new marking the Prizes of their Goods. Boston: Printed and sold by Rogers and Fowle in Queen-Street next to the Prison. 1750.

The Dying Speech of Old Tenor,

On the 31ſt of March 1750; being the Day appointed for his Execution.
With a Word of Comfort to his diſconſolate Mourners.

Kind Reader,

'Tis cannot be inferſible how I have been uſed, and in what Manner for three Weeks paſt, and what different Sentiments ſome have entertain'd concerning me, calling me Bomaree, Old Stuff, and many other hard and opprobious Names in the Publick Prints; but I was handled in ſo rough a Manner, laſt Wedneſday, Thurſday and Friday, being the three laſt Days before my Execution, that I catch'd a prodigious Cold, and on Friday Night was obliged to retire, having the Head-ach to a great Degree; but conſidering how ſhort my Time was, and the great Diſtreſs of ſome of my laſt Friends, who appeared to me very Diſmal and Melancholy, was determin'd to leave them the following Legacy, for their own peruſal, and their Children after them; which I penn'd in Part after Nine o'Clock, and finiſh'd the next Morning early, knowing that it would be a very buſy Day with me. After I had taken a little Breakfaſt, which lay very hard in my Stomach, I was hurry'd about from one Part of the Town and Province to another in a moſt violent Manner, ſo that by One o'Clock, I could ſcarcely fetch my Breath: After Dinner (having had a very poor Appetite, knowing the doleful Scene was not far off) ſeven ſome of my laſt Friends began to be ſhy of me, threatning to ſhut up their Shops, becauſe I was thrown in upon them ſo ſuſt. About half an Hour before Sun-ſet, thoſe who were very fond of ME ONCE, ran about Town as if they were diſtracted, for fear I ſhould die in their Hands, and were as glad to get rid of me as if I had been a Rattle-ſnake; which brought to my Mind the Fable of an aged Hound being in purſuit of his Game, caught it, but could not hold it, becauſe his Teeth were worn out; for which his Maſter corrected him very ſeverely.—The Dog begged that he might not be puniſhed, alledging that he was old; The Meat of which it, Many People are ſo ungrateful as to take no Notice of the Ninety-nine good Turns, which they have received, if the Hundredth is denied them.

WHat doleful Cries are theſe that fright my Senſe!
Sad as the Groans of dying Innocence.
The killing Accents now more near approach,
And does moſt Hearts with Grief and Wonder touch.
It makes a mighty great and doleful Sound
Spread far and wide, enlarges all around.
My Name Old Tenor is, 'tis true, I own,
And by that Name have many Years been known.
But what alas! is all this Stir and Noiſe!
Have I not been quite juſt unto your Caſſe?
Indeed I've help'd the Poor Man in Diſtreſs,
And eas'd the Widow and the Fatherleſs.
I've built you Houſes, for to keep you warm,
And bought you Cattle for to plow your Land.
When in Diſtreſs, a helping Hand I've been,
And purchas'd Things to carry you to your End.
When you've been ſick, I've done the beſt I cou'd
To eaſe your Mind, and do juſt as you wou'd;
When you've been parch'd with Fevers violent,
I to the Doctors for you have been ſent.
When your Guts grumbl'd and your Heads have ak'd
I then ſtood ready for to eaſe your Pate.
When you no Breeches had, or Coat to wear,
You conſtantly did unto me repair;
I bought you Caps, I bought you Shoes likewiſe,
And many a Time no Doubt have ſav'd your Lives.
When Wars aroſe, and Enemies you purſu'd,
To me you ran for Shelter from your Foes.
I bought you Guns, and Drums, and Swords indeed,
And ev'ry Thing that Mortals ſtood in need.
When Frenchmen unto you were coming in,
I then ſtood ready for to be your Friend.
When your Hearts fail'd, I purchas'd you good Cheer,
Which made you bold, and on the Spaniards ſneer.
When all your Trade was in Stagnation lain,
I then rous'd up, which was not quite in vain.
I raiſ'd an Army, to Cape-Breton ſent,
Who took that Place, which made you all content:
Rejoicings great you then was pleas'd to make,
Altho' it made the Frenchmen's Hearts to ake.
In ſhort, great Things I always have been doing,
And conſtantly for me you have been wooing.
Should I recount the good Deeds I have done,
The World perhaps could find not ſuch a one.
But after all, what ſtrange Reward muſt have,
Among ſome Men, unwilling I ſhould live;
Or any more among you for to breathe.
This Day my Execution's to commence
And I'm to be for ever baniſh'd hence.
Ah! cruel Fate, 'tis hard indeed to tell
The Crowds of Men, of my unhappy end.
Mourners I have in Numbers great and ſmall,
Who gladly my Death-Warrant would recall:
But ah! poor Souls! I pity you from my Heart,
But that, alas! won't eaſe you of the Smart.
I have been hug'd, I have been tore in two,
And ſerv'd the worſt of Mortals, it is true;
But then Compaſſion on me you have had,
And ſtamp'd me now, which made my Heart quite glad.
How nice and carefully have I been tuck'd,
Where little pretty Infants lie and ſuck.
But what comes next to that; I'm plainly told
I am to be exchang'd for brazy Gold.
The DOLLARS are on Monday next to riſe,
And then I doubt not ſome will looſe their Eyes.
Theſe pretty Baubles you will turn and twiſt
And then ſecurely lay them in your Cheſt.
But I, alaſs, after you've had your Gamut,
Muſt be thrown up in Heaps and put in Flames.

PART II. A Word of Comfort.

But come my Friends, your Fate is hard, 'tis true,
One Word of Comfort I will ſay to you:
After my Name by ſome is wholly loſt,
I ſhall be hov'ring all around the Coaſt.
If in Diſtreſs by ſome you ſhould be brought,
Come unto me in Hampton with your Lot.
Bring up your Goods unto Connecticut,
And there I'll make you grow quite plump and fat.
If theſe ſhould fail, to Providence Repair,
And there my Friends you all ſhall have your ſhare.
Three Governments I've in Poſſeſſion now,
They all me mind, and great Reſpect do ſhow.
My Land is good, my Cedars large and tall,
And thoſe who come to me ſhall never fall.
All thoſe who have my Enemies been indeed,
Will be convinc'd that I have them reliev'd.
Their Thoughts are high, their Looks are mighty great;
And do ſeem pleas'd at my imagin'd Fate.
Shortly they'll ſee how I in Triumph vie,
And then with Sorrow they'll look dull and cry.
Rejoice my Friends, rejoice once more I ſay,
Altho' this is my Execution Day.
After I'm dead, take Care of my Remains,
And when I riſe, will pay you for your Pains;
Keep up your Hearts, tho' Scoffers do rejoice;
And in a little Time you'll hear my Voice.
Altho' this Day looks dark, and Hearts are ſad,
Mind not the Frowns of wicked Men who're glad;
Shortly they'll ſay, Old Tenor come again,
But then alas! 'twill be too late for them.

Dated in BOSTON, which has been the chief Place of my Reſidence for many Years, which I believe will be very ſenſible of my Departure, this Thirty-firſt of March 1750.

By His EXCELLENCY

WILLIAM SHIRLEY, Esq;

Captain-General and Governour in Chief, in and over his Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England.

A PROCLAMATION for a general FAST.

IT being our incumbent Duty to acknowledge GOD in all our Ways, and to commit [illegible] Affairs [illegible] to his gracious Direction; and being bound, in a special Manner, to implore the Divine Favour and Assistance in the Affair of great Importance;

I Have therefore thought fit, with the Advice of his Majesty's Council, and at the Desire of the Assembly, to appoint Thursday the Twentieth of March next, to be observed throughout this Province, as a Day of Fasting and Prayer, hereby calling upon Ministers and People religiously to solemnize the same, by penitent Confession of their Sins, and deep Humiliation for the growing Depravity and Dissolution of Manners amongst us, with earnest Supplications to Almighty GOD, that he would be pleased to grant us the free Pardon of our Sins, and that a general Amendment and Reformation may prevail in all Orders of Men, and that he would remove the present Tokens and Effects of his righteous Displeasure against us, and prevent those more severe Judgments, which our Sins have deserved, and which in the Abuse of Divine Providence we are warned to prepare for; and also, that it would please our merciful GOD to confer upon us all needful Blessings, Particularly, that he would long continue the precious Life of our Sovereign Lord the KING, and direct and prosper the Counsels and Administrations of his Government, for the general Prosperity of the Kingdoms and Dominions under his happy Rule, and particularly, for maintaining the just Rights of his Crown, and the Properties and Possessions of his good Subjects, against the Invasions of foreign Powers, and also for continuing and strengthening a general Peace among the Nations. That GOD would graciously preserve and bless their Royal Highnesses, the Prince of Wales, the Princess Dowager of Wales, Their Graces, and the other Branches of the Royal Family. That he would be favourable to our Land, and give his gracious Influence and Guidance to the Government of this and his Majesty's other Colonies in North America, that they may be led into such Measures as may especially at this Conjuncture, as may be effectual for their mutual Security and Defence. That GOD would in great Mercy preserve Peace upon our Sea-Coasts and Inland Frontiers, and frustrate all Designs to disturb and violate the same, so that no Weapon formed against us may prosper. That he would restore Health where it is wanted, and continue it where it is enjoyed. That he would grant us Seasons in every Part of the Year so producing a plentiful Increase of the Fruits of the Earth. That he would protect and succeed the Navigation, Trade and Affairs of this Province, and give his Blessing to the Works of our Hands, and that he would commiserate the Case of our Captives and restore their Liberty. And, above all, That he would defend and spread the Holy Religion of our Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, and that the Power of Goodness may every where prevail, and the whole Earth be filled with the Glory. And all servile Labour and Recreations are forbidden on the said Day.

Given at the Council-Chamber in Boston, the Twenty-seventh Day of February 1755, in the Twenty-eighth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Second, by the Grace of GOD, of Great-Britain, France and Ireland KING, Defender of the Faith, &c.

By Order of his Excellency, with the Advice and Consent of the Council,

J. Willard, Secr'y.

W. Shirley.

GOD Save the KING.

By His EXCELLENCY

WILLIAM SHIRLEY, Esq;

Captain-General and Governor in Chief, in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, and Vice-Admiral of the same, and Major-General in His Majesty's Army.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the Indians of Norridgewock, Arreſaguntacook, Wewecnock and St. John's Tribes, and the Indians of the other Tribes inhabiting in the Eaſtern and Northern Parts of His Majeſty's Territories of New-England, the Penobſcot Tribe only excepted, have, contrary to their ſolemn Submiſſion unto His Majeſty long ſince made and frequently renewed, been guilty of the moſt perfidious, barbarous and inhuman Murders of divers of his Majeſty's Engliſh Subjects; and have abſtained from all Commerce and Correſpondence with His Majeſty's ſaid Subjects for many Months paſt; and the ſaid Indians have fully diſcovered an inimical, traiterious and rebellious Intention and Diſpoſition;

I have therefore thought fit to iſſue this Proclamation, and to Declare the Indians of the Norridgewock, Arreſaguntacook, Wewecnock and St. John's Tribes, and the Indians of the other Tribes now or late inhabiting in the Eaſtern and Northern Parts of his Majeſty's Territories of New-England, and in Alliance and Confederacy with the above-recited Tribes, the Penobſcots only excepted, to be Enemies, Rebels and Traitors to his Moſt Sacred Majeſty: And I do hereby require His Majeſty's ſubjects of this Province to embrace all Opportunities of purſuing, captivating, killing and deſtroying all and any of the aforeſaid Indians, the Penobſcots excepted.

AND WHEREAS the General Court of this Province have voted, That a Bounty or Encouragement be granted and allowed to be paid out of the Publick-Treaſury to the marching Army that ſhall be employed for the Defence of the Eaſtern and Weſtern Frontiers from the Twenty-fifth of this Month of June until the Twenty-fifth of November next;

I have thought fit to publiſh the ſame; and I do hereby promiſe, That there ſhall be paid out of the Province Treaſury to all and any of the ſaid Forces, over and above their Bounty upon Enliſtment, their Wages and Subſiſtence, the Premiums or Bounties following, viz.

For every Male Indian Priſoner above the Age of Twelve Years, that ſhall be taken and brought to Boſton, Fifty Pounds.

For every Male Indian Scalp, brought in as Evidence of their being killed, Forty Pounds.

For every Female Indian Priſoner, taken and brought in as aforeſaid, and for every Male Indian Priſoner under the Age of Twelve Years, taken and brought in as aforeſaid, Twenty-five Pounds.

For every Scalp of ſuch Female Indian or Male Indian under Twelve Years of Age, brought as Evidence of their being killed, as aforeſaid, Twenty Pounds.

GIVEN under my Hand at Boſton, in the Province aforeſaid, this Twelfth Day of June, 1755, and in the Twenty-eighth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Second, by the Grace of GOD, of Great-Britain, France, and Ireland, KING, Defender of the Faith, &c.

By His Excellency's Command,
J. WILLARD, Sec'ry.

By the HONOURABLE

SPENCER PHIPS, Esq;

Lieutenant-Governour and Commander in Chief in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts-Bay in New-England.

A PROCLAMATION for a publick FAST.

WHEREAS Almighty GOD is pleased still to chastize us with the grievous Judgment of War, and to permit the unjust Invasions of the British Territories in North-America, as well as in other Parts of the World, by the French, who have employed the Indians in these Parts, as Instruments of their Cruelty in shedding the Blood of Multitudes of Women and Children, as well as Men, upon the Frontiers of these Colonies, with such Circumstances of Barbarity as are most abhorrent not only to the true Spirit of Christianity, but even to Humanity itself; And whereas the Preparations now made and making against us by our French and Indian Enemy loudly admonish us of our Danger as also of our Duty, to acknowledge the righteous Hand of God in these Dispensations of his Providence, and to seek a speedy Reconciliation to Him; and the Time of Action of the Forces raised by this and the neighbouring Governments for recovering their just Rights out of the Hands of their Enemies being probably very near, the Voice of Providence doth evidently call upon us to seek to God for his Blessing upon our important Undertakings, without which we have no Ground to hope for Success;

I have therefore thought fit, with the Advice of his Majesty's Council and at the Desire of the Assembly, to appoint Thursday the Twenty second of this Instant July to be observed thro out this Province as a Day of publick Fasting and Prayer; Hereby calling upon Ministers and People devoutly to solemnize the same by the deepest Humiliations for our heinous Offences, by which We have highly incensed the Divine Majesty against us, and have caused him to hide his Face from us, and to punish us with the sore Calamities of War: and also to implore his Commiseration of us, in our present Distresses, and mercifully direct in the Forming and Executing of our military Enterprises, and thereby to deliver us out the Hands of our Enemies, and enable us to recover our Rights and Properties, by them unjustly invaded: that he would keep all Sin out of our Camps, as well as from the whole Community, and make us a penitent and reformed People; that he would inspire our Officers with Conduct and Resolution, and our Soldiers with Faithfulness and Courage; and that, as the Captain of our Salvation, he would lead them on to Success and Victory; That he would graciously preserve the important Life of our Sovereign Lord the KING with all the Branches of his Royal House; and direct his Counsels and prosper his just Arms for restoring and preserving the Peace of Europe; and that the Divine Promises and Predictions of the Universal and Spiritual Reign of our Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, the Prince of Peace, may be speedily accomplished.

And all servile Labour and Recreations are forbidden on the said Day.

Given at the Council Chamber in Boston, the Tenth Day of July 1746, in the Twentieth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Second, by the Grace of GOD of Great-Britain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c.

By Order of His Honour the Lieutenant Governour, with the Advice of the Council,

S. Phips.

J. Willard, Secr'y.

By the Honourable

His MAJESTY's COUNCIL,

For the Province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay in New-England.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the General Aſſembly have in their preſent Seſſion paſſed an Act to prohibit the Departure of all Ships and Veſſels from any Port or Place within the Province; and of all Fiſhing-Veſſels, ſuch only excepted as are not uſually abſent more than four Days at a Time, until the Twentieth Day of April Inſtant, without ſpecial Permiſſion from His Majeſty's Council, or the major Part of them, on Penalty of forfeiting One Hundred Pounds, to be paid by the Maſter; and the like Penalty of One Hundred Pounds to be paid by the Owner or Owners of every ſuch Ship or Veſſel departing as aforeſaid:

AND WHEREAS Proviſion is made in ſaid Act, that His Majeſty's Council, or the major Part of them, ſhall, if they ſee fit, lengthen out the ſaid Embargo to the Firſt Day of June next;

WE have therefore thought fit, in Council, to iſſue this Proclamation; hereby giving public Notice of the aforeſaid Act of Government; and ſtrictly forbidding all Maſters or Owners of any Ships or Veſſels within the Province to ſuffer any ſuch Ships or Veſſels, without ſpecial Permiſſion from His Majeſty's Council or the major Part of them, to depart out of the ſame, or to proceed to any of the Fiſhing-Banks until the TwentiethDay of April Inſtant.

AND we do hereby forbid all Officers concerned in the Clearing of Veſſels to give Certificates or Clearances for any Ships or Veſſels whatſoever within their reſpective Diſtricts to depart out of the Province, during the Continuance of this Prohibition or Embargo, without Permiſſion as aforeſaid.

AND all his Majeſty's good Subjects who ſhall or may diſcover any Ship or Veſſel privately or clandeſtinely loading within the Province, or departing out of the ſame contrary to Law, are hereby deſired to give immediate Information thereof to his Majeſty's Council, or to any of the Officers aforeſaid, that all Perſons offending may be proſecuted according to Law for any ſuch Offence.

GIVEN at the Council-Chamber in BOSTON the Seventh Day of April 1757, in the Thirtieth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Second, by the Grace of GOD, of Great-Britain, France and Ireland, KING, Defender of the Faith, &c.

The first poem is that of 1159, and the second

In a mould'ring cave, a wretched retreat,
Britannia sat wasted with care;

The second poem is by Thomas Paine and has been reprinted many times. Conway states that it was written in 1759 and is said to have been sung at the Headstrong Club, Lewes, England, but its first appearance in print was in the Pennsylvania Magazine, March, 1775, with music. It is noted here because of the event it commemorates, but other issues will be found in the Ballad list, infra. Adapted to the death of General Warren, it was printed in the Independent Chronicle, October 9, 1777.

By His EXCELLENCY

THOMAS POWNALL, Esq;

Captain-General and Governor in Chief, in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts-Bay in New-England, and Vice-Admiral of the same.

A PROCLAMATION.

IT having pleased Almighty GOD to give the most remarkable Success to His Majesty's Arms this Year in America, more particularly in the Reduction of Quebeck (the Capital of Canada) and the adjacent Country;

I HAVE therefore thought fit, with the Advice of His Majesty's Council, to issue this Proclamation, appointing Thursday the Twenty-fifth Day of October Instant, to be observed as a Day of Public Thanksgiving throughout this Province, to commemorate these distinguishing Instances of the Divine Goodness ----- Hereby recommending it to Ministers and People to unite in their respective Churches and Congregations, in rendering to Almighty GOD their grateful Praises for these undeserved Favours; and in presenting their humble Prayers and Supplications for His most gracious Majesty King GEORGE, the Prince of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family; and for the Continuance of the Divine Blessing upon His Majesty's Government, and upon His Arms.

GIVEN at the Council-Chamber in Boston the Thirteenth Day of October, 1759, in the Thirty-third Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Second, by the Grace of GOD, of Great-Britain, France and Ireland, KING, Defender of the Faith, &c.

By His Excellency's Command,

A. OLIVER, Secr'y.

T. Pownall.

GOD Save the KING.

BOSTON: Printed by John Draper, Printer to His Excellency the Governor and the Honorable His Majesty's Council, 1759.

No. 1170.

By His EXCELLENCY

THOMAS POWNALL, Esq;

Captain-General and Governor in Chief in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, and Vice Admiral of the same.

A BRIEF.

IT having pleased Almighty GOD to permit a Fire to break out in the Town of Boston, on the 20th Instant, and to rage in such manner as to reduce a Number of Houses to the Ground, and to lay a few more exposed to the same Fate, unless timely Assistance should be obtained by the gracious Compassion of Others: One Hundred and seventy-four Dwelling Houses, and several Warehouses, Shops and other Buildings, the Loss whereof, with the Furniture and Goods therein, is computed to amount to a Sum of Money exceeding Ten hundred Pounds Sterling, and Two Hundred and Twenty Families are turned out of Doors, the greatest Part of whom are by this Misfortune are so reduced as to be rendered incapable of retrieving themselves, and stand in need of immediate Relief.

THESE Things, upon my Recommendation, taken into serious Consideration, and being well assured, by Proofs so full, great and extensive as to require the Credit of all well disposed Persons, to mitigate and relieve the same, have ordered me to send BRIEFS throughout the Province, through recommending the suffering Case of those poor People to the Inhabitants, and exciting them to a general Contribution for their Relief.

I DO hereby therefore most carnestly recommend it to Every one of the Christian Benevolence on this Occasion, by communicating in Proportion to the Means and Ability which GOD hath given them, and to the Dictates of their own Compassion in their Charities, and the Burthen of this Misfortune may be lightened on those Objects may be removed to the Select-Men and Overseers of the Poor of the several Towns, to be by them distributed among the Sufferers, as they in their Discretion shall think proper.

AND I do require the Ministers of the several Churches and Congregations in this Province, to cause these to be read that Day to their respective Congregations, on which the Collection they receive the same, and the Day appointed by a General Letter, for a General Thanksgiving, and that shall judge most convenient.

GIVEN at the Council Chamber in Boston, the Twenty fourth Day of March, 1760, in the Thirty third Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Second, by the Grace of GOD, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, KING, Defender of the Faith, &c.

By His Excellency's Command,

A. Oliver, Secry.

An Account of the Fire at Harvard-College, in Cambridge; with the Loſs ſuſtained thereby.

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 25. 1764.

LAST night HARVARD COLLEGE, ſuffered the moſt ruinous loſs it ever met with ſince its foundation. In the middle of a very tempeſtuous night, a ſevere cold ſtorm of ſnow attended with high wind, we were awaked by the alarm of fire. Harvard Hall, the only one of our ancient buildings which ſtill remained,* and the repoſitory of our moſt valuable treaſures, the public LIBRARY and Philoſophical APPARATUS, was ſeen in flames. As it was a time of vacation, in which the ſtudents were all diſperſed, not a ſingle perſon was reſident in any of the Colleges, except two or three in that part of Maſſachuſetts moſt diſtant from Harvard, where the fire could not be perceived till the whole ſurrounding air began to be illuminated by it. When it was diſcovered from the town, it had riſen to a degree of violence that defied all oppoſition. It is conjectured to have begun in a beam under the hearth in the library, where a fire had been kept for the uſe of the General Court, now ſitting; and ſitting here, by reaſon of the Small-Pox at Boſton: from thence it burſt out into the Library. The books eaſily ſubmitted to the fury of the flame, which with a rapid and irreſiſtible progreſs made its way into the Apparatus underneath, and ſpread thro' the whole building. In a very ſhort time, this venerable Monument of the Piety of our Anceſtors was turn'd into an heap of ruins. The other Colleges, Stoughton Hall and Maſſachuſetts Hall, were in the utmoſt hazard of ſharing the ſame fate. The wood-work of the cupolas and timbers nearly upon them, were burnt and conſumed in a conſiderable degree, and could have been ſaved by all the help that could be afforded, had it not been for the attendance of the Gentlemen of the General Court, among whom his Excellency the Governor was preſent; who, notwithſtanding the extreme violence of the ſeaſon, exerted themſelves in ſupporting the Engine with water, which they were obliged to fetch at laſt from a diſtance, two of the College pumps being then rendered uſeleſs. Even the new and beautiful Dolloſ Hall, though it was the windward ſide, hardly eſcaped. It ſtands near to Harvard, that the Flames could not be manifeſt they had not been immediately extinguiſhed, muſt have caught it.

But by the Bleſſing of God on the vaſt exertions of the aſſiſtants, the ruin was confined to Harvard Hall, and there, beſides the deſtruction of the private property of thoſe who had chambers in it, the public loſs is very great: perhaps irreparable. The Library and the Apparatus, which for many years had been growing, and were now judged to be the beſt in America, are annihilated. But to give the public a more diſtinct idea of the loſs, we ſhall exhibit a ſummary view of the general contents of each, as far as we can, on a ſudden, recollect them.

Of the LIBRARY.

IT contained—The Holy Scriptures in almoſt all languages, with the moſt valuable Expoſitors and Commentators, ancient and modern.—The whole Library of the late learned Dr. Leightſon, which at his death he bequeathed to this College, and contained the Targums, Talmuds, Rabbins, Polyglot, and other valuable tracts relative to oriental literature, which is taught here: The library of the late eminent Dr. Theophilus Gale:—All the Fathers, Greek and Latin, in their beſt editions.—A great number of tracts in defence of revealed religion, wrote by the moſt maſterly hands, in the laſt and preſent century.—Sermons of the moſt celebrated Engliſh divines, both of the eſtabliſhed national church and proteſtant diſſenters:—Tracts upon all the branches of polemic divinity.—The donation of the venerable Society for propagating the Goſpel in foreign parts, conſiſting of great many volumes of tracts againſt Popery, publiſhed in the Reigns of Charles II and James II.—Boſcawen lectures, and other the moſt eſteemed Engliſh ſermons.—A valuable collection of modern theological treatiſes, preſented by the late Rev. Dr. Sherlock, late Lord Biſhop of London, the Rev. Dr. Hayes, F. R. S. and the Biſhop of London.—A vaſt number of polemic pieces, containing the ſubſtance of almoſt all controverſies ancient and modern.—Hebrew, Greek and Roman antiquities.—Ecclaſtic Greek and Roman Claſſics, preſented by the late excellent and catholic ſpirited Biſhop Berkeley; and many other valuable volumes.—A large Collection of Hiſtorical and Geographical tracts, ancient and modern.—[illegible] converſation.—The Tranſactions of the Royal Society, Academy of Sciences in France, Acta Eruditorum, Memoirs of Trevoux, the Academy of Berlin, and Newton, with a great variety of other mathematical and philoſophical treatiſes.—A collection of the moſt approved Medical Authors extant; preſented by Mr. Harris of the College of Surgeons, to which Dr. Mead and others contributed many curious and valuable additions.—Mr. Addiſon's works, and two compleat Collections of Collateral Treaſures of the College Library [illegible] Proteſtor of Divinity and Antiquity, with the Governors of the College [illegible] [illegible] Lord Biſhop of London, [illegible] Manuſcripts [illegible] Engliſh [illegible] Hiſtory, [illegible] Hiſtory, [illegible] Hiſtory,

A Poem,

Compos'd on occasion of the SIGHT seen on the GREAT TREES, (so called) in BOSTON, NEW-ENGLAND, on the 14th of AUGUST, 1765.

LET Albion's sons in praise their tongues employ,
New-England tune, and Rule Britannia joy:
Tyrants of nations, their politics and wit,
She still expects her LIBERTY and PITT.
For ruffian fame from every foreign foe,
Dreades their plots, and sees their overthrow,
And loan shall ere the wretch completely curs'd
Who flinches to STAMP her glorious charter dead.
" Freedom, (the cries) I appeal things to heaven,
" My sons are free, and never will be slaves "
Let tyrants rule with arbitrary sway,
Villains command, and worship fools obey,
Let diadems live in infamy and shame,
While Britons fight for liberty and fame
Let all the foes that have a pinion to learn,
Oft Pitt rage, and Bargrave thunder.
Let cannon rear its ears and hoarse roar rive,
And flame with fiery glow the thunder skies
Speak Bradyrian, this will that to obey'd,
Bid every flame intrude the gloomy place,
Give these commands to all infernal ghosts,
" Go just unchain every of the dreadful coast
" Hell's master and great commissioner wide and far,
" Furies horrible, and Gorgonian crews
" Tisiphone, Megera, and Alecto go.
" Let these exhaust every infernal powers below."
Suppose this done, and in the ensigned bands
At this new world with monsters of their hands
Can hoary vassals world with their fierce revel,
Instruct their allies and every fiend of hell;
These sons of liberty this passage would withstand,
Assemble gun and die maintain their ground,
Our sovereign Lord and God opposer this throne:
This shall Britons in safety take refuge
At gracious heaven, and heir the royal line.
O grant us favor in our commands
Defend our rights, restore to us PITT and PEACE:
Let truth prevail and honor supervise over,
And hail our Empire from the mouth of peace.
Lo! here in ocean, I may be prone to think,
Now rolls his waves, now down thence to the head:
He like a God appears in some gentle,
While wet, aged spreads some deep delight,
Hoary in years, now perplex to mind
Each sacred truth, and all these notions late,
" Rules, he cries, your wars are at an end,
" Your fur that vast and ample shall quickly extend,
" With thanks shall be lost, shall hail his face,
" Thus has while I speak the time and place
" The fair new dawns, the gloomy nights is spent,
" And soon your eyes shall see the grand event,
" See fair flames that the clouds dies,
" While cheerful birds gaily the morning skies:
" The shades are fled, the lingering stars are fled,
" And yonder Phœbus lifts his golden head
" Then cries the Preacher, I must bade away,
" The Gods command and mortals must obey."
No more I heard from where he then crouch,
He rode his wave and went towards the stars:
Then I beheld amazing wonders there,
Saw human figures and shadows in the air.
A dreadful sight appear'd before my eyes,
Whose lofty branches seem'd to touch the skies;
Its limbs were bent with more than common fruit,
It bore the Devils, Ghosts, and Boys.
Wondering, fixed, my senses are wholly fled,
I read the events of what the future shall
But while I stood to gaze upon the tree,
Another and another came to see,
Each moment I beheld a numerous face,
Far on they gazed till hundreds fill'd the place,
Then hands a child and looks with wandering eyes,
And there a chariot of gigantic size,
Yonder a maid in harmless affiance flourish,
And here a sir with lifted eyes and hands.

This pleasing prospect entertains the throng,
And join as one, and thus begin their song,
" With grateful joy, O Britain, now behold
" Those troubles hallowed, which lately were upheld
" With thankful hearts now see the villain bring
" What have their treasonry, and would fall the king:
" Behold the wings, vainly from which we are free
" And now the tyrants, who would have reign."
Thus I countless ones commend the day,
In songs and praise and all their hearts away:
Now as nothing and nothing near the W
And weary mansions come to their close,
And now a thousand the water stood,
Sometimes he said, and spoken on the road,
" How else, he cries, will be for our own,
" Would be [illegible] to [illegible]
" Happiness to divine heaven of the night,
" Experience this [illegible] with [illegible] right."

1456. The Parody Parodized, or the Massachusetts Song of Liberty.

Come, swallow your bumpers, ye Tories, and roar,
That the sons of fair freedom are hamper'd once more;

Published as a handbill in Boston. It was a parody on a Tory poem which appeared in the supplement to the Boston Gazette, September 26, 1768, itself a parody on "A Song" attributed to John Dickinson and Arthur Lee. See Duyckinck, I. 452.

1457. [Cut.] A New | Song, | Address'd to the Sons of Liberty, on the Continent of America; | particularly to the illustrious, Glorious and never to be Forgotten | Ninety-Two of Boston. Signed, "A Son of Liberty." [Boston: Printed by Green & Russell, 1768.] † PHS

It first appeared in the Pennsylvania Journal, August 4, 1768, and was reprinted in the Essex Gazette, August 16, 1768. The cut is the same which appeared on "A New Year's Wish, from the Carrier of the Post-Boy & Advertiser, 1762," No. 1288, supra.

The device in title of the "Boston Post-Boy," beginning with the issue of June 11, 1750.

The year is conjectural, and may have been in any year after 1765, when the two sections of the town entered into a truce and united in a peaceable celebration of the night. The cut is the same as appears in 1769. In NYHS is a pamphlet of 4 pages entitled: The | Procession | or, the | Burning of the Pope | In Effigie, | at | Temple-Bar, or in Smithfield, | On the 17th of November 1681. | Being | Queen Elizabeth's Birthday. | Describing | The several Pageants, and rare Devices of | the Pope, Cardinals, Jesuits,

Friers, and many others. As | likewise a Pageant of Several Effigies in a Pillory drawn | by Horses upon a Sledge. | Several painted Pieces, and | Fire-works, &c. Far exceeding whatever has been ex- | posed in this nature. With the signification of the seve- | ral Hieroglyphicks. Humbly dedicated to his Holiness. [London:] Printed for William Goble. 1681. The date of Elizabeth's birth was September 7, 1533, but November 17 was "usually observed as the Anniversary or Birth-day of the ever Renowned Princess" etc. Guy Fawkes day was November 5, but I am unable to learn when the ceremony of burning the Pope was connected with the Queen's birthday. The Oxford Dictionary states that the Effigy was burned on the anniversary of the gunpowder Plot, on Queen Elizabeth's night, "or at other times," and gives, as the earliest notice, an extract from Evelyn, 1673. Captain Francis Goelet in 1750 saw "the Devil and the Pope &c. Carried about by the Mob represented in Effegy very drole soone after see two more of them, but the Justices feareing some Outrages may be Committed Put a Stop to them." N. E. Hist. Gen. Register, XXIV. 61. John Adams (II. 201) speaks of "popes and bonfires" in Salem in 1766.

In Provincial Congrefs,

Cambridge, October 22, 1774.

FROM a Conſideration of the Continuance of the Goſpel among us, and the Smiles of Divine Providence upon us with Regard to the Seaſons of the Year, and the general Health which has been enjoyed; and in particular, from a Conſideration of the Union which ſo remarkably prevails not only in this Province, but through the Continent at this alarming Criſis.

IT is RESOLVED, as the Senſe of this Congreſs, That it is highly proper that a Day of PUBLIC THANKSGIVING ſhould be obſerved throughout this Province; and it is accordingly recommended to the ſeveral Religious Aſſemblies in the Province, that Thurſday the Fifteenth Day of December next, be obſerved as a Day of THANKSGIVING, to render Thanks to Almighty God for all the Bleſſings we enjoy. At the ſame Time, we think it incumbent on this People to humble themſelves before God on Account of their Sins, by which he hath been pleaſed in his righteous Judgment to order ſo great a Calamity to befal us, as the preſent Controverſy between Great-Britain and the Colonies; as alſo to implore the Divine Bleſſing upon us, that by the Aſſiſtance of his Grace we may be enabled to return whatever is wrong in us, that he God may be pleaſed to continue to us the Bleſſings we enjoy, and remove the Judgments we deſerve, by cauſing Harmony and Union to be reſtored between Great-Britain and their Colonies, that we may again ſee in the Smiles of our Sovereign and the Protection of their Privileges which have been conſtitutional Source and have the hopeful Proſpect that they ſhall be handed down entire to Poſterity, under the Proteſtant Succeſſion in the illuſtrious Houſe of Hanover.

By Order of the Provincial Congreſs,

JOHN HANCOCK, Preſident.

The Addreſs, Petition, and Remonſtrance, of the City of LONDON, to the KING, in Favour of the AMERICANS, and their Reſolves, preſented to his Majeſty, July 5, 1775.

LONDON, July 6.

YESTERDAY the Sheriffs waited on his Majeſty at St James's, when Mr. Sheriff Plomer addreſſed the King in the following words, "May it please your Majeſty, we are ordered by the Mayor, Aldermen and Livery of the city of London in Common Hall aſſembled, to wait upon your Majeſty, humbly to deliver into your Majeſty's hands, in Their name, their Reſolutions agreed to in Common Hall, on the 29th of June laſt, and of the 5th inſtant." Mr. Sheriff Plomer then delivered a copy of the following Reſolutions only into the King's hand, which was received without laying a word.

At a meeting of the Livery of London, in Common Hall aſſembled, on Tueſday July 4, 1775.

Reſolved, That the King is bound to hear the Petitions of his People, as being the undoubted right of the ſubject to be heard, and not a matter of grace and favour.

Reſolved, That his Majeſty's anſwer to a dreſſ denial of the right of this court to have their petitions heard.

Reſolved, That ſuch denial renders the right of petitioning the throne, recognized and eſtabliſhed by the Revolution, of no effect.

Reſolved, That whoever adviſed his Majeſty, directly or indirectly, to refuſe hearing the humble Addreſs, Remonſtrance and Petition of this court, on the throne, is equally an enemy to the happineſs and ſecurity of the King, and to the peace and liberties of the people.

Reſolved, That the following inſtructions be given to our Repreſentatives in Parliament.

Gentlemen,

YOU are here inſtructed by the Livery in Common Hall aſſembled to move immediately on the firſt meeting of parliament for an humble Addreſs to both the Houſes of Commons, to inſiſt upon, regarding as known who were the authors of thoſe fatal meaſures that have gained powers and arbitrary power in America and have plunged us into a moſt unnatural civil war, to the ſubverſion of the fundamental principles of Engliſh liberty, the ruin of our moſt valuable commerce, and the deſtruction of his Majeſty's ſubjects. To know who were the adviſers of a meaſure ſo dangerous to his Majeſty's happineſs, and the rights of his people, as refuſing to hear the petitions and complaints of his ſubjects. You are further inſtructed, gentlemen, to move for an impeachment of the authors and adviſers of thoſe meaſures that by bringing them to public juſtice, evil counſellors may be removed from before the King, his throne may be eſtabliſhed, the rights of the people be vindicated, and the whole empire reſtored to the enjoyment of peace, liberty, and ſafety.

To the King's Moſt Excellent Majeſty.

The Addreſs, Petition, and Remonſtrance, &c.

Moſt gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt faithful ſubjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Livery of the city of London in Common Hall aſſembled, are compelled again to diſturb your Majeſty's repoſe with our complaints.

We have already expreſſed to your Majeſty our abhorrence of the tyrannical meaſures purſued againſt our fellow ſubjects in America, as well as of the men, who adviſe, and of the miniſters, who execute theſe meaſures.

We deſire to repeat again, that the power contended for over the colonies, under the ſpecious name of dignity, is to all intents and purpoſes, deſpotiſm; that the exerciſe of deſpotick power in any part of the empire, is irreconcileable with the character and ſafety of this country.

As we would not ſuffer any man, or body of men to eſtabliſh arbitrary power over us, we cannot acquieſce in any attempt to force it upon any part of our fellow-ſubjects: we are perſuaded that by the ſacred unalienable right of human nature, as well as by every principle of the conſtitution; the American colonies have a right to their peace, liberty, and ſafety: that while their powers invaded, theſe rights, ought to be aſſerted; we hold ſuch reſiſtance, in vindication of their conſtitutional rights, to be the moſt perfect duty to God, from whom theſe rights are derived, to themſelves, who cannot be ſafe and happy without them, and to their poſterity, who have a right to claim this inheritance at their hands unmutilated and compacted.

We have already remonſtrated to your Majeſty, that theſe meaſures were big with all the conſequences, which could attend a free and commercial people; a deep and perhaps fatal wound to commerce, the ruin of manufactures; the diminution of the revenue, and conſequent increaſe of taxes; the alienation of the colonies, and the blood of your beſt ſubjects.

Unhappily now the worſt of theſe apprehenſions have reached us in all their horror. We have been with regret already informed, of a civil war commenced in America, by your Majeſty's commanders in chief. Will your Majeſty be pleaſed to conſider what muſt be the conſequences of our people here, who have nothing more to regard but in America but ſcenes of blood, and mutual loſs of their daughtered fellow ſubjects.

Every moment's proſecution of this fatal war, may laſten irregularly the bonds of that connection, by which the glory and ſafety of the Britiſh empire depends.

If any thing could add to the alarm of theſe events, it is your Majeſty having declared your confidence in the wiſdom of ours, a majority of whom are notoriouſly hoſtile to every thing conſiderable country. It is to the miſchievous of your Majeſty in the miſchievous and groſſeſt the people to have a groſſ corrupted and a repreſentation under ſuch dangerous influence, an influence which, though exerted by your miniſters, is dangerous to your Majeſty, but deſtructive to you, and to your people, by betraying them.

In ſuch a ſituation, your petitioners are bound to declare to your Majeſty, that they cannot and will not in conſcience, that they will never themſelves at every hazard, to bring thoſe who have adviſed theſe moſt meaſures to the bar of this country and of the Britiſh united colonies.

We have already ſignified our perſuaſion, that their evils originate in the ſervile advice of thoſe, who are equally enemies to your Majeſty's throne, and to the rights of their people. Your petitioners are now compelled to ſay, that your throne is ſurrounded by men avowedly inimical to thoſe principles on which your Majeſty poſſeſſes the crown, and this people their liberties. As a means to look diſtreſs and danger, public confidence is eſſential to your Majeſty's repoſe and to the preſervation of your people, ſuch confidence cannot be obtained by miniſters and adviſers who want wiſdom and bold principles incompatible with freedom, nor can any hope of relief be expected from a parliament, elected under a national deluſion, adroitly raiſed, by miſrepreſentations touching the true ſtate of America, and artfully continued by a prerogative diſtribution.

Your petitioners therefore again pray and beſeech your Majeſty to diſmiſs your preſent miniſters and adviſers from your perſon and councils forever, to diſſolve a parliament, who by various acts of cruelty and injuſtice, have manifeſted a ſpirit of perſecution againſt our brethren in America, and given their ſanction to poverty and arbitrary power, to put your future confidence in miniſters, whoſe known and unbroken attachment to the conſtitution, joined to their wiſdom and integrity, may reaſſure your Majeſty to ſettle this alarming diſpute upon the firm, honourable, and laſting foundation of general liberty.

A CIRCUMSTANTIAL ACCOUNT

Of an Attack that happened on the 19th of April 1775, on his MAJESTY'S Troops,

By a Number of the People of the Province of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

ON Tuesday the 18th of April, about half past Ten at Night, Lieutenant Colonel Smith of the 10th Regiment, embarked from the Common at Boston, with the Grenadiers and Light Infantry of the Troops there, and landed on the opposite Side, from whence he began his March towards Concord, where he was ordered to destroy a Magazine of Military Stores, deposited there for the Use of an Army to be assembled, in Order to act against his Majesty, and his Government. The Colonel called his Officers together, and gave Orders, that the Troops should not fire, unless fired upon; and after marching a few Miles, detached six Companies of Light Infantry, under the Command of Major Pitcairn, to take Possession of two Bridges on the other Side of Concord: Soon after they heard many Signal Guns, and the ringing of Alarm Bells repeatedly, which convinced them that the Country was rising to oppose them, and that it was a preconcerted Scheme to oppose the King's Troops, whenever there should be a favourable Opportunity for it. About 3 o'Clock the next Morning, the Troops being advanced within two Miles of Lexington, Intelligence was received that about Five Hundred Men in Arms, were assembled, and determined to oppose the Troops. The Advanced Guard's Guns pointed to the Head of the advanced Companies, two Officers informed him that a Man advanced from those that were assembled) had presented his Musquit and attempted to shoot them, but the Piece flashed in the Pan. On this the Major gave directions to the Troops to move forward, but on no Account to fire, nor even to attempt it without Orders." When they arrived at the End of the Village, they observed about 200 armed Men, drawn up on a Green, and when the Troops came within a Hundred Yards of them, they began to file off towards some Stone Walls, on their right Flank: The Light Infantry observing this, ran after them; the Major instantly called to the Soldiers not to fire, but to surround and disarm them; some of them who had jumped over a Wall, then fired four or five Shot at the Troops, wounded a Man of the 10th Regiment, and the Major's Horse in two Places, and at the same Time several Shots were fired from a Meeting-House on the left.* Upon this, without any Order or Regularity, the Light Infantry began a scattered Fire, and killed several of the Country People; but were silenced as soon as the Authority of their Officers could make them.

After this, Colonel Smith marched up with the Remainder of the Detachment, and the whole Body proceeded to Concord, where they arrived about 9 o'Clock, without any Thing further happening; but vast numbers of armed People were seen Assembling on all the Heights: while Colonel Smith with the Grenadiers, and Part of the Light Infantry remained at Concord, to search for Cannon, &c. there; he detached Captain Parsons with six Light Companies to secure a Bridge at some Distance from Concord, and to proceed from thence to certain Houses, where it was supposed there was Cannon, and Ammunition; Captain Parsons in pursuance of these Orders, posted three Companies at the Bridge, and on some Heights near it, under the Command of Captain Laurie of the 43d Regiment; and with the Remainder went and destroyed some Cannon Wheels, Powder, and Ball; the People still continued encreasing on the Heights; and in about an Hour after, a large Body of them began to move towards the Bridge, the Light Companies of the 4th and 10th then descended, and joined Captain Laurie, the People continued to advance in great Numbers; and fired upon the Kings Troops, killed three Men, wounded four Officers, one Serjeant, and four private Men, upon which (after returning one fire) Captain Laurie and his Officers, thought it prudent to retreat towards the Main Body at Concord, and were soon joined by two Companies of Grenadiers; when Captain Parsons returned with the three Companies over the Bridge, they observed three Soldiers on the Ground, one of them scalped, his Head much mangled, and his Ears cut off, tho' not quite dead; a Sight which struck the Soldiers with Horror; Captain Parsons marched on and joined the Main Body, who were only waiting for his coming up, to march back to Boston; Colonel Smith had executed his Orders, without Opposition, by destroying all the Military Stores he could find; both the Colonel, and Major Pitcairn, having taken Care to convince the Inhabitants that no Injury was intended them, and that if they opened their Doors when required, to search for said Stores, not the slightest Mischief should be done; neither had any of the People the least Occasion to complain, but they were sulky, and one of them even struck Major Pitcairn. Except upon Captain Laurie, at the Bridge, no Hostilities happened from the Affair at Lexington, until the Troops began their March back. As soon as the Troops had got out of the Town of Concord, they received a heavy Fire from all Sides, from Walls, Fences, Houses, Trees, Barns, &c. which continued without Intermission, till they met the first Brigade, with two Field Pieces, near Lexington; ordered out under the Command of Lord Percy to support them; (advice having been received about 7 o'Clock next Morning, that Signals had been made, and Expresses gone out to alarm the Country, and that the People were rising to attack the Troops under Colonel Smith.) Upon the Firing of the Field Pieces, the People's Fire was for a while silenced, but as they still continued to encrease greatly in Numbers, they fired again as before, from all Places were they could find Cover, upon the whole Body, and continued so doing for the Space of fifteen Miles: Notwithstanding their Numbers they did not attack openly during the Whole Day, but kept under Cover on all Occasions. The Troops were very much fatigued, the greater Part of them having been under Arms all Night, and made a March of upwards of Forty Miles before they arrived at Charlestown, from whence they were ferryed over to Boston.

The Troops had above Fifty killed, and many more wounded: Reports are various about the Loss sustained by the Country People, some make it very considerable, others not so much.

Thus this unfortunate Affair has happened through the Rashness and Imprudence of a few People, who began Firing on the Troops at Lexington.

* During this Time Colonel Smith and Major Pitcairn, with the greatest Difficulty, kept the Soldiers from forcing into the Meeting-House and putting all those in it to Death.

2591. Prospectus | du Courier des Deux Mondes. EI

I have not been able to give the year of issue. The first newspaper printed in Boston in the French language was the Courier de Boston, an undertaking of Paul Joseph Guérard de Nancrède, instructor in French in Harvard College. It was published for a few months in 1789. In 1792 the Courier de l'Univers appeared, but was also short-lived. Nancrède appears to be responsible for the "Prospectus" and it may have indicated a title half-way between "Boston" and "L'Univers," so I have arbitrarily given it to 1790.
